usually as the follicle develops and begins to produce estradiol the estradiol feeds back to the pituitary gland to turn off the production of fsh