direct contact with these areas or tissues infected with MRSA (e.g., an infected incision) is most likely to result in transmission from pets to people.

It's not surprising that, for many young athletes, the message goes straight in one ear and out the other.

Lakhan said, "Our review and summary of the literature on herbal remedies and dietary supplements for..."