Henry Aaron of the Brookings Institution discussed the ways that researchers could evaluate whether copayments affect health care utilization.