as the nation's energy boom unfolds, landmen are needed to negotiate oil and gas leases between the companies and the folks that own the resources