if there are axillary nodes that are palpable at the time of surgery, then the axillary lymph nodes should be removed surgically (axillary dissection).

A yeast infection that doesn’t go away can be the first clue to...